CILI . HALT.

In speaking of the wholesale und of en all aims it San Francis co, and the carles ness of the police in enforcing the concealed Wenp h law, the Fost says:

The result of triffing with jus tice in matters of this kind in the past has only tended to harden the criminal classes, in the belief thathey can do just as they please II this city so long as money or in fluence is at their back. Public sentiment is growing stronger or this subject daily, and it will be judicious on the part of those who nake it their business to defend or apoligize for murderers to re certize this fact and be guided therely in their future conduct.

The police should use every endeaver to enforce the law against tle carrying of cencealed weapons E ery sur picious character should be stopped and searched, while at the same time the restriction placed on the indiscriminate sale of small arms adopted in other parts of the world could be wisely adopted by compelling every pur chaser to have an official license, which must be registered by whoever makes the sale.

The practice of carrying pistols about in this city is becoming al together too common and it shoud be stopped. There should Prof. C. Norris' Canine be no necessity for a peaceably in clined citizen to go armed, and the fact that so many do so is an unpleasant commentary on the reputation of the place. The other class that parade a weapon more for bravado than anything else, is a constant merace to the peace and quietness of any community.

An Editorial Nightmare.

The following from the Cour tells the "tale of woe" of other editors besides its author: "The editor has been laid up for repairs for the last ten days, and must ask the indulgence of his readers for any discrepancies that may appear in this issue. * * * During the editor's indisposition he was haunted with a nightmare It seemed to him that a subscriber was trying to get in the office to pay up and for some reason could not get in. When he got out of bed he found that the subscriber did not get in, as the cash drawer | Convention to meet in Cohn's Hall was empty. He has made arrangements so that in future if a subscriber comes and finds the door locked, he can shove his money under the door, and the next day he will get his receipt by mail."

Ireland's potatoe famine is assuming alarming proportions and several cases of starvation are reported. Appeals for charity from the people of the United states are already made. The American and close at 6 o'clock P. M. people will not be slow in giving help wherever there is suffering, and starvation in Ireland would arouse their keenest sympathies. It is to be hoped that in such ning. Clerks: S. H. Day and T. distress as seems to threaten the Cornelly. Emerald Isle, England will be prompt to come to the front to alleviate misery that criminal misconduct in the ruling country is in large measure responsible for.

La Lanterne thinks the French wine growers will soon be convinced that there is little advantage in protecting French hog., and in the interests of beet-growers and distillers, putting prohibitive duties on American corn, if the result is to lose their own market

The Siecle approves absolutely Minister Reed's letter, and says prohibition against American pork was a fault which should be brought to an end.

A great many people consider it a sign that they are pretty to see their pictures in a photographer's show case. Perhaps, suggests the Atchison Globe, the pictures are placed there to show how nice an ugly face can be made to appear.
